Subject: Costume Deadlines 'Dr. Who. 5R.'

To: John Nathan Turner.

c.c. Anji Smith.

c.c. Director.

c.c. Costume Designer.

Following a discussion with Amy Roberts, I would suggest the following deadlines for Dr. Who. 5.R.

FOR FILMING.

All principals and numbers of extras:- 11th. June. Week. 24.

Marshmen.:- 27th. June. Week. 26.

All other Extras:- 3rd. July. Week. 27.

STUDIOS.

Any principals not involved with filming:- 15th. July. Week. 29.

Extras:- 1st. Studio.- 28th. July. Week. 31.

Extras: 2nd. Studio:- 12th August. Week. 33.

Amy will need to make practically all the costumes for this production, and it is essential that she has her cast early, to ensure that makers have sufficient time to produce the costumes. Numbers of extras required are vital, so that the making can get ahead, assuming you will cast extras to fit the costumes.

Andrew Smith

Dear Andrew

(This is to let you know that we've accepted your "Planet that Slept", and the wheels are turning that will result in the all-important cheque!

The Acceptance Note says "Accepted subject to rewrites". Don't be alarmed -- this doesn't mean we'll be hauling you back and forth between here and Glasgow for any more of the gruelling sessions we had the other week. In fact there has already been a fairly heavy bit of rewriting since your last revision, but I think the thing is now more-or-less in a shape we can use, and further adjustments will be minor.

(I'll just put you in the picture about the main changes, and the reasons for them. Although I hope the redraft is an improvement, I'm bound to say that I feel that we've lost something of the original flavour. You'll probably feel this too, so I'd better explain what we've had to do and why.

The central problem was simply one of length. As I've said to you, timing a script by reading it through is very hard to do, but it was clear to us that "Planet" was running a good 30% over-length. That's not the sort of over-run that can be pared down just by reducing the dialogue, so it was necessary to extract a thread or two from the story. The natural contender for this, to my mind, was the rivalry between Varsh and Tylos. No doubt your favorite part of the story! Yes, I'm sorry, but the problem there was: (a) that there was an awful lot of it, and it didn't do much to move the central plot forward; (b) that the DOCTOR had no part in it, not even in the resolution, and; (c) that it did involve rather too much violence.

In episode two you extract a lot of mileage from the idea of the Marshmen picking up the Tardis and moving it, but it's never really clear why they do this. I've tried in the rewrite to provide a rationale for this, as well as taking the opportunity to cut down the violence and duration of the assault on Romana by the gang. I think we need to sympathise with the young people (we ended up calling them "The Outlers") and the assault made it very hard to do this. The relationship between the Outlers and the Starliner Citizens also seemed rather vague. Hopefully this is now clearer.

Romana's "spider interlude" was still not entirely anchored into the plot, so I've tried to lay a more solid preparation for this. John and I mentioned our difficulty with FEM's femininity: cutting down her role helped with this problem, I think, as well as clarifying the plot line. We also felt it was a mistake to have the Marshman rampaging in the Starliner prior to the final ep, as this was after all part of the "big finish".

We've also done something about reducing the size of the cast. The idea was mooted that the three surviving Deciders be reduced to two, but I liked what you were doing with them. Hopefully the rewrite strengthens this.

The only other big problem for us -- and you certainly weren't to know about this -- were one or two similarities with the Terrance Dicks story we've just put in the can. We had to watch this carefully because, as you know, your story immediately precede his.

It all amounts to a mopping-up operation on a rather larger scale than I would have liked, from both our points of view. But I think the result tells the story you want to tell, and makes the most of your very welcome creative contribution to the show.

I'll let you have the new draft as soon as it's in a fit state. Then, please, if you've any ideas for further improvements I hope you'll speak up.

Yours

Enjoyed the scripts. Would you please be careful however that the Marshmen, as described at the end of episode one are not too frightening. Even in my imagination they terrify me!

George Baker Esq.,

Dear George Baker,

I enclose the scripts for DR WHO "The Planet that Slept". I wondered if you would consider the part of Login. There are a number of rewrites in the pipe-line, in the course of which the part of Login will be written up.

The dates are 29th July to 23rd August, and you would be needed in the studio for all four episodes.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely,

The DOCTOR's Adventures in E-Space

Distinguish between the Charged Vacuum Emboitment through which the TARDIS passes, and E-Space where the adventures take place. Mathematically, perhaps, E-Space is inside the CVE, but for our purposes we had better think of them as the mouth of the bottle and the bottle itself.

THE CHARGED VACUUM EMBOITEMENT

Experimental observation shows that matter and anti-matter can be created inside a vacuum subjected to a strong electromagnetic field. Twenty-first century physics has also discovered that in some extremely rare circumstances the same conditions can create a charged vacuum within a charged vacuum, and that theoretically at least an almost infinite (and almost infinitely improbable) regression of charged vacuums can be nested inside each other like Chinese boxes. This "emboitement" leads through to an independent universe (E-Space) that is in all other respects completely isolated from the one we know; and the TARDIS has accidentally verified this theoretical finding by falling right into it!

Such Charged Vacuum Emboitements (CVE's) differ from Black Holes in being considerably rarer as space-time events, and also in having absolutely no effect on space in the immediate vicinity. Because they exert no gravitational force it is possible (unlike Black Holes) to pass right by them without even being aware of them. The TARDIS and its crew have been very unlucky indeed!

THE NATURE OF THE OTHER UNIVERSE

The DOCTOR and Co are in E-Space (or more fully, the exo-Space/Time continuum), which lies outside the finite but boundless Space/Time of Einstein (N-Space). The TARDIS has undergone a negation isometry -- that is to say the space in which it now finds itself has negative co-ordinates with respect to our familiar universe. The mathematics of the CVE suggest that this new world has an equal probability of being composed of matter or anti-matter, but its nature in this respect is not really an issue: anti-matter itself may be fairly familiar to Twenty-first century physicists. The major problems, in inverse order of importance, are:

(1) Because of the relative smallness of E-Space (there are only two galaxies) the TARDIS behaves with unpredictable reliability, especially on short temporal and spacial hops.

(2) The Laws of Physics in this universe tend to operate in familiar ways, but may not be one hundred percent trustworthy.

(2) Romana and the Doctor are trapped, unless they can find another CVE

Dear

I would like to confirm that we want to officially book Black Park for filming "Dr. Who" on Wednesday, 23rd to Friday 25th July inclusive.

Our areas of activity would be around the lake, the opposite end to the main car park. As agreed, there will be a fair amount of dressing by the designer (dressing and painting existing greenery, building a pier into the lake) and also frequent use of visual effects (air pump, fog, dry ice).

All vehicles will enter the Park through Gate 12 and you will be responsible for signposting the dual carriageway and parking facilities within the park. Only essential vehicles i.e. generator, prop van, camera and sound car will use the road encircling the lake.

Lavatory, catering and changing facilities will be provided by the BBC.

We may want to use a boat provided by yourselves but this will be confirmed at a later date. We also agreed that you could be of assistance in finding frogmen for use on our next recce and during filming.

Many thanks for all your help today and I will let you know the date of next recce as soon as possible.

Dear Alan,

It hardly seems 3 years since I worked as Paddy's P.A. with you on "The Horror of Fang Rock", but since it is so long ago, it seems you can be seen again in the programme. I would very much like you to consider the part of Garif in the enclosed scripts, which I am directing. These are only a first draft and there are considerable changes in Episode four which will probably enhance the part of Garif.

Dear Leonard,

We worked together several years ago when I was David Maloney's P.A. on "Hawkeye the Pathfinder

I enclose the script for episode one of "Dr Who" in which Draith appears.

I would be delighted if you would consider the part of Draith. It would involve 2 days filming between 23rd-25th July, and if possible a read through on the morning of 22nd. I have enquired through your agent, that this would fit in with The National.

BRIEF OUTLINE OF PLOT (Information in brackets NOT FOR PUBLICATION)

The DOCTOR and ROMANA'S attempted return to GALLIFREY is frustrated by a mysterious cosmic disruption that at first seems to have little effect, apart from scrambling the scanner and diverting the TARDIS to a planet called ALZARIUS.

Here the DOCTOR meets the community from the STARLINER - a giant passenger starship that crashed forty centuries ago, and is still being made ready for departure. But the community is threatened by 'MISTFALL', a time during which the planet is periodically blanketed with fog and ancient records indicate that creatures rise up from the marshes wreaking havoc across the planet.

The OUTLERS, a gang of young people who have dissociated themselves from the community, believe the story of 'MISTFALL' to be a myth perpetuated by the DECIDERS to help them retain power over the STARLINERS. But the myth proves true when MARSHCREATURES rampage across the planet under cover of the gathering fog. While the DOCTOR is inspecting the marshes, the OUTLERS seek refuge in the TARDIS, holding ROMANA at the point of a knife.

(The DOCTOR discovers that the constant work of maintenance around which the people of ALZARIUS structure their lives, far from being a preparation for departure, is an empty ritual in blind obedience to a vast library of manuals. Key knowledge is lacking - none of the STARLINERS actually knows how to pilot the craft.

Meanwhile, a crisis has united ROMANA and the OUTLERS - MARSHMEN are transporing the TARDIS to the OUTLER'S cave overlooking the STARLINER in the valley below. Here ROMANA is attacked by MARSHSPIDERS, and falls into a coma, while one of the OUTLERS, the intelligent and inquisitive young ADRIC, inadvertently dematerialises the TARDIS, leaving her stranded.

She revives to find herself rescued by the DOCTOR and transported back to the STARLINER. But she has lost her identity, and is now transformed into a raging creature like the MARSHCREATURES. ADRIC is contrite, and with his help and that of the other OUTLERS the DOCTOR uncovers the clue to what is happening. He discovers that the STARLINER people are not visitors to ALZARIUS, but evolved MARSHCREATURES who have taken over and ritually maintained the craft after wiping out its original crew and passengers countless generations ago.

The DOCTOR passes on the vital final instructions about how to fly the craft, and leaves them with the decision: will they remain on ALZARIUS or follow their destiny as evolving intelligences?

As the TARDIS dematerialises, the scanner shows the STARLINER taking off: the hovering DECIDERS have at last taken the plunge. ADRIC watches too, having stowed away unnoticed by the DOCTOR and ROMANA.)

The DOCTOR and ROMANA'S attempted return to GALLIFREY is frustrated by a mysterious cosmic disruption that at first seems to have little effect, apart from scrambling the scanner and diverting the TARDIS to a planet called ALZARIUS.

Here the DOCTOR meets the community from the STARLINER - a giant passenger starship that crashed forty centuries ago, and is still being made ready for departure. But the community is threatened by 'MISTFALL', a time during which the planet is periodically blanketed with fog and ancient records indicate that creatures rise up from the marshes wreaking havoc across the planet.

The OUTLERS, a gang of young people who have dissociated themselves from the community, believe the story of 'MISTFALL' to be a myth perpetuated by the DECIDERS to help them retain power over the STARLINERS. But the myth proves true when MARSHCREATURES rampage across the planet under cover of the gathering fog. While the DOCTOR is inspecting the marshes, the OUTLERS seek refuge in the TARDIS, holding ROMANA at the point of a knife.

(The DOCTOR discovers that the constant work of maintenance around which the people of ALZARIUS structure their lives, far from being a preparation for departure, is an empty ritual in blind obedience to a vast library of manuals. Key knowledge is lacking - none of the STARLINERS actually knows how to pilot the craft.

Meanwhile, a crisis has united ROMANA and the OUTLERS - MARSHMEN are transporting the TARDIS to the OUTLER'S cave overlooking the STARLINER in the valley below. Here ROMANA is attacked by MARSHSPIDERS, and falls into a coma, while one of the OUTLERS, the intelligent and inquisitive young ADRIC, inadvertently dematerialises the TARDIS, leaving her stranded.

She revives to find herself rescued by the DOCTOR and transported back to the STARLINER. But she has lost her identity, and is now transformed into a raging creature like the MARSHCREATURES. ADRIC is contrite, and with his help and that of the other OUTLERS the DOCTOR uncovers the clue to what is happening. He discovers that the STARLINER people are not visitors to ALZARIUS but evolved MARSHCREATURES who have taken over and ritually maintained the craft after wiping out its original crew and passengers countless generations ago.

The DOCTOR passes on the vital final instructions about how to fly the craft, and leaves them with the decision: will they remain on ALZARIUS or follow their destiny as evolving intelligences?

As the TARDIS dematerialises, the scanner shows the STARLINER taking off: the hovering DECIDERS have at last taken the plunge. ADRIC watches too, having stowed away unnoticed by the DOCTOR and ROMANA.)

Dear Mr. Eatough,

A note to say thank you for all your help and co-operation before, during and after our filming.

Everything was a great success and everyone is very pleased with the rushes. I hope that our presence in Black Park didn't cause too many problems for you and your staff, who were always helpful and efficient.

"Full Circle" will be transmitted from Saturday, 25th October for four weeks. It will be difficult to recognise Black Park under all that swirling dry ice!

Once again, many thanks.

Yours sincerely,

Subject ELECTRICAL CONDUCTIVITY OF PAINT USED IN BBC STUDIOS

To: Mr. Ivan Rogers,
Purchasing Manager, Tel.

Copies to: Ch.Asst.(Gen.)Tel.Design
H.Vis.E.Dept.
Electrical Services Manager,
Manager, Scenery

Thank you for your help and time given in our discussion on 6th August 1980.

Since our meeting I have made further checks on the conductivity of some 9 paints in common use. The tests showed that it is the black paint we are worried about.

Also on Friday 8th August 'Dr. Who', in TC3, a spot check was made on the control unit of the Tardis. This is painted with black and aluminium paint and is fitted with practical 240 volt lights and motor. Both paints were found to be conductors as measured with standard insulation test equipment.

May I confirm then the outcome of our discussion that:

- (i) black paint, such as Fireguard 804, and also aluminium paint, must not be used on scenery or props fitted with practicals with a voltage above 110 volts DC or 55 volts r.m.s. (voltages, above which, are considered as dangerous).
- (ii) such conducting paints not to be used except over metal that can be earthed, on 'Top of the Pops' rostra and flats and on similar programmes with a high 'practical' and floor lighting content.
- (iii) that a reminder be promulgated to all who request and use paint, i.e. Designers, Outside Contractors, Visual Effects Workshop, etc. on the necessity to use and specify non-conducting paints where there is a close association of the painted item with electricity higher than the voltage given in (i) above.

5.8	Festival - Dear Brutus DP 2140/9590	TC3	1	C.S.O. inserts	150'	-	11'	After four days of production in TC6, this extra day was arranged to follow on when it was found that the four days were inadequate. A very heavy day's schedule involving C.S.O. inserts which took longer to perfect than expected so causing overrun to recording time of 11'.
8.8	Dr. Who DL 2340/9281 Day 2	TC3	2	60'	150'	-	15'	Many complicated special effects absorbed much time, but so did the number of retakes for performance reasons. The schedule was nowhere near completed and degenerated into a shot-by-shot, ad-lib situation . Even so there was an overrun to recording time of 15'.

This session was overscheduled & deliberately to allow more time
We lost a 2nd VTR machine several times. The next studio session during recording which resulted in a loss of 5 mins approx - as we cannot afford model due to checking one machine recording. film effort
The Tardis central console, which I have now for every script decided to remake, broke down & had to be operated by a VTR operator this cost the play at least 5 mis.

The remaining 5 mis of return was due to ~~excessive~~ potmanee retakes of the younger members of the cast — my decision.

Subject: "DR WHO" - 5R

To: John Nathan-Turner, Producer "Dr. Who"

Three matters have arisen from last week's "Dr. Who" recording.

The first is simply explained by the copy of the letter from A/Vision Manager which I received yesterday.

The second item bears on the Tardis control unit also, you will perhaps be already aware of the temporary breakdown in the drive motor of this unit on the Friday, the breakdown was due to heavy wear in the gear box caused by the reciprocating motion.

I suggest that time and money be allocated for the solving of items 1 and 2, probably a complete rebuild is the final answer. However, there are interim measures that we might discuss.

The third matter is also on the subject of time. I understand from John Brace that once again a "Dr. Who" recording has ended with a last half-hours unsuccessful scrabble to record intricate visual effects. The cost of such waste in time and money are bad enough, but in the end I am sure that a far greater debt will be piled up by such callous waste of human spirit and endeavour. If future recordings are to discount Visual Effects work in this manner, it will be impossible to resist the idea growing amongst my staff that "Dr. Who" is not worth giving any effort to because it will never be properly used.

This session was overscheduled deliberately in order to allow more studio time for model work in the next studio session as we cannot afford model film effort for every four-part story.

We lost a second VTR machine several times during recording which resulted in a loss of five minutes approximately - due to checking one-machine recording. The Tardis central console, which I have now decided to have remade, broke down and had to be operated by a Visfx operative lying on his back. This cost the production at least five minutes. The remaining five minutes of overrun was due to performance retakes of the younger members of the cast - my decision.

Sorry for the lack of information in my memo of 11th August.

As you know overruns are under more scrutiny than usual at present. I wonder therefore if you have any comment about the enclosed 'Late Start and Overruns' report for Week 32, particularly the "degenerated into a shot-by-shot, ad-lib situation"

No doubt there is a very plausible reason, but it would be useful for us to know please.

DOCTOR WHO: OVERRUNS

Planning Manager, Resources, Television

c.c.: Asst II to H.S.M.Tel. (Eddie Marsden)
H.P.P.Res.Tel.

In reply to your memo of 19.8.80, I make the following comments about recording in Week 32.

There were many complicated special effects which absorbed time. There were also many retakes for performance reasons - (four of the leading characters in this story were youngsters) and they were all at my request.

This first studio session was deliberately 'overloaded' in an attempt to allow as much time as possible in the second recording for model work, as the programme budget will not allow model filming for every story. However, we were always aware that the last section of studio scenes in this first session could be recorded in the second session as we had the set available.

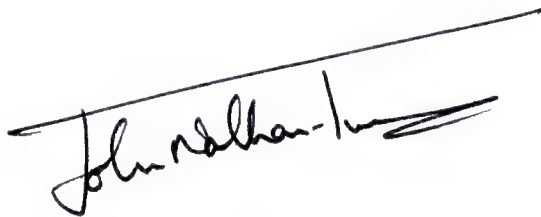

We did overrun by fifteen minutes for the following reasons:-

- (1) We lost a second VTR machine several times during recording which resulted in a loss of five minutes approximately - due to checking one-machine recording.
- (2) The Tardis central console, which I have now decided to have remade, broke down and had to be operated by a Visual Effects' operator lying on his back. This cost the production at least five minutes.
- (3) The remaining five minutes of overrrun was due to performance retakes of the younger members of the cast - my decision.

I am slightly surprised at "degenerated into a shot-by-shot, ad-lib situation" - as time was short, I asked the director to simplify the shooting of the last few scenes, which he did with expertise

Furthermore, in our last session of three day recording - August 21,22,23 - we lost 32 minutes during the three days due to loss of VT (bad tape), two changes of microphones during recording and camera breakdown. Despite these hold-ups and thanks to simplication of shooting and judicious cutting we overran six minutes.

Dear Richard,

Very many thanks for your strong performance as Varsh. You did a smashing job and I'm most grateful for all your patience and hard work, not too mention physical exertion during rehearsals and in the studio. I am sorry it all got so rushed, but that is always the way with "Dr. Who". I think you coped with all the pressures magnificently. I hope you are pleased with the results when you see it on the screen.

I do hope we work together again.

DOCTOR WHO: GALLERY ONLY, TC6, WEDNESDAY 27 AUG, 1100-2200

Planning Manager, Resources, Television

cc: Senior Assistant, Facilities, Television Recording
Organiser, Drama Series/Serials
PUM 'Doctor Who'

During the above Gallery Only session we lost 2 hours and 25 minutes of recording time due to equipment failures and a breakdown of communication between Facilities Clerk, Drama Serials and Planning.

Although a memo booking the video disc from 1100-1300 was sent by Anji Smith, PUM - the forms officially requesting the booking never arrived in Planning. Hence the video disc was taken away by Sport, and no-one informed the production. Thanks to our TM2, we were able to negotiate for a couple of hours during the afternoon session.

The Telecine for the gallery session was never booked - once again the form did not arrive in Planning. Due to the fact that we wished to alter the times of the booking and rang Planning, we discovered we had no booking - this was subsequently adjusted.

The equipment failures were as follows:-

- (1) 1 hr & 20 mins late start due to two VT breakdowns, one subsequent change of broken VT and no time-code reader available. Hence we started our session at 12.20 pm instead of 11 a.m.
- (2) 25 mins late start to afternoon session due to re-lining up the VT machine which we lost during the morning.
- (3) 25 mins loss during afternoon due to desk fx unit breakdown.
- (4) 15 mins loss during evening session due to change of VT machines (unscheduled) and breakdown of desk fx unit.

Continued ...

If we are to adhere to our allocated time and days as per your memo of 19.8.80 we cannot suffer this vast amount of breakdowns and general loss of time.

We abandoned effects in the Gallery Only session which were discussed, planned and researched and without which the final programme will not be as good as it could have been.

Dear Keith,

A brief note to say thank you for putting up with the discomfort of the latest monster costumes. I appreciate that it is a tiring and often thankless task to be part of the fantasy of the costume department. But in "Dr. Who" it is one of the most important elements of the programme, and I am grateful for all your patience and stamina during both the filming and the studio days.

With all best wishes,

Dear John,

Now that we have finally finished, a brief note to say thank you for a very spritely K9. I am really grateful for the way you stood in ~~the~~ the automaton during rehearsals, despite the fact that I later expected to see you in front of the cameras in the studio.

All best wishes,

{ Dear Mike,

Thank you once again for all your hard work on "Full Circle". It has cut together very well and we are about to put the finishing touches on in the dubbing theatre.

I am most grateful for all your co-operation and help during the planning stages and those frantic studio days.

I hope we can work together again.

Best wishes,

Jeff Jeffery,

Dear Jeff,

Very many thanks for enabling us to get as much from our hectic studio days on "Full Circle" as we did. We have just finished the editing, and although one regrets all the rush and the inevitable compromises, it is rewarding to see the results of so much hard work on the screen - I'm particularly pleased with the splendid sequence we managed to cut together in the rampage scene, thanks to your negotiations with VI for a separate line to Camera 6!

I hope we work together sometime in the future.

Best wishes,

(Peter Grimwade)

A.H.E.Tel.Rec.VT, Shift Manager VT 1.

I passed a copy of your original memo Sept. 2nd to the Shift Manager on duty for that date. He made the following observations:-

(1) 1 hour and 20 minutes late start:

There were difficulties with VT6 but delay was also caused by the studio not being ready. According to the Studio Engineers they had no advance information. VT's delay would have been to the order of a few minutes or even less if the booking had been clearer on the sheets. (Viz: Roll back and mix on 3 adjacent machines).

The booking was record on 2 machines in Area 2 and insert only from 1 machine in Area 1. Therefore this machine would not have carried out a record line-up until it transpired that this was necessary.

(2) 25 minute late start (afternoon)

Delay of a few minutes due to a different machine failure but once again VT Staff say studio then were not ready.

(4) 50 minute loss (evening)

The machine change was done during the meal-break. It is interesting, if fruitless, to note that VT Staff complained to the Shift Manager that their time had been wasted.

I am sorry this reply is so late. As you can imagine at this time of year the usual delays of Annual Leave affecting consultation with those concerned and passing the information back, have occurred.

(Geoff Higgs).

Barney Lawrence,

Dear Barney,

Thank you for your letter. Sorry I was unable to arrange an 'cellular transformation' for you, but you didn't really want to be stuck in the Tardis - or did you?

Back to reality - we have only just finished editing/dubbing - and it looks really good - the kiddies should like the 'monsters'

To get to the point of this little note - For dramatic reasons we have not given you a credit in the Radio Times for episode one - but you have got a credit at the end of the programme - and of course on all the others (programme and Radio Times.)

Again, good luck for future,

Best wishes

Dear Mel,

A belated note (I've only just finished editing etc.)
to say thank you for working on "Full Circle".

I really liked having a friendly face from the past to give me luck! I dare say that now you are going back to your grand programmes with titled gentlemen of the theatre that it won't be possible to repeat the experience (I've actually been offered another four episodes)!

However, best of luck with Sir Alec. (Next time I see you you'll probably have another sweater in your wardrobe, or perhaps even better)

Best wishes,

(Peter Grimwade)

P.S. We are prepared in view of the successful completion of the programme to overlook that unsavourary incident in Black Park.

Dear Rod,

It's now your turn for the thank you letter!

A very genuine thank you though for all that you did to put the pieces together in such a convincing way. The proof of the pudding they say I've been asked to direct the last story of this season, which can't be bad. So, my gratitude is certainly genuine, and we may yet meet again further on down the line - I hope.

Best wishes,

Dear Paddy,

Thank you again for all the hard work you put into music for "Full Circle". All the comments and letters about the programme draw attention to the excellence of the incidental music.

I look forward to meeting again on the next one.

Because of the rush to get everything done before transmission, we'll send you a set of scripts as soon as we have the definitive version from Arthur C. And if it is a help we could have a chat to work out some of the possible music cues.

Best wishes,

(Peter Grimwade)
